

knows to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty.

"Rose, Weber and Valion have tried to talk to me about the case," said "grapevine," "but I have refused to discuss it with them."

DOUGHERTY SAYS FORTY MEN ARE STILL SEARCHING.

"It would be very unwise for me to divulge what I am doing to apprehend the three men still wanted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal," said Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty to a Evening World reporter. "I am investigating the illness of Inspector Hughes, Dougherty has assumed full command of the trailing for the Rosenthal slayer. He added:

"But the public can rest assured that the search under my direct supervision is thorough and careful. We are going to get the men, rest assured of that."

"Every clue, by telephone, letter or otherwise, received by District Attorney Whitman relative to the three fugitives, is promptly sent by him to me, and immediately investigated."

"There are now detailed in special units of the endeavor to locate and arrest these fugitives forty of our best men. In addition to this, clues furnished to the department by telephone, telegraph and mail are promptly investigated by a special squad of detectives awaiting orders for such work at Police Headquarters."

Richard S. Barker, of the real estate firm of Duff & Brown, No. 175 Amsterdam avenue, the notary who accompanied Becker to Harry Pollok's house thirty-six hours after Rosenthal was murdered and there took Rose's signature to the affidavit Becker demanded, that Herman Rosenthal had never been Becker's gambling partner and that Rose had not acted as Becker's collector, tells this story:

"I was in an Amsterdam avenue cigar store about the night of July 7. Two men drove up in a taxicab, and one asked the cigar man if he knew of a convenient room. The cigar man said I was a notary. The questioner, whom I afterward recognized as Becker, said to come with them, as he wanted two statements sworn."

"The car took us to the Riviera, where Becker left us. He said something to the cab about seeing him next day. Hari had to give the initials 'J. H.' before we could get in upstairs."

"We were there two hours. Some of the talk was too low for me to hear, but I heard Rose say he was worried and thought he had better go and see the District Attorney."

SAM SCHEPPS WAS THERE, TOO.

Barker added that Hari expressed disappointment at Pollok's absence. As they left Rose's room, he says, he saw a man in the hall with his head in his hands. Mr. Whitman believes this was Sam Schepps, who had come to the Pollok apartment to keep Rose from surrendering.

Rose tells the District Attorney that he confessed because he discovered he was being double crossed. He was told that Becker said he probably was guilty and that word from a police officer who had guaranteed to stand by him that he would have to take his medicine.

"I was up against it," Rose said. "They were going to put me in the middle and I had only one way to stop them and I took it."

Assistant District Attorneys Moss and Rubin are devoting their attention to the money end of the case as distinct from the murder end. From the great mass of evidence gathered by them, an exhibit has been made of peculiar interest to another police official whose name has been frequently mentioned, but who has not yet been accused publicly. It would surprise no one, however, if the Grand Jury returned an indictment against him for grafting.

From each of seven-five disbursements he is said to get an average of $200 a month from the various places he is said to receive an average of $500. This makes his total take about $3,500 a month. To this must be added the extra that fell to his share, as well as his part of the protection money paid to another inspector with whom he shared.

Then, of course, there is a deduction to be made on the score of the other inspector's interest in the collections.

ACCOUNTS ALREADY TRACED SHOW $100,000 EACH.

Each of these two inspectors has a bank account across which Mr. Whitman's men have stumbled in their investigation. Both are known to have more than one account, yet the accounts traced out that each has more than $100,000 on deposit.

And in this connection it should be said that inquiries are being pushed into the stock operations of Becker. The report has received partial confirmation that at times he has been a heavy operator in the market, doing his speculating through a dummy.

It is believed that "Jack Sullivan" will talk to him a great deal as protection goes. Nor does this mean he has nothing to tell about the murder, for the District Attorney declares that the story of the witness Stanish is among the straightest in his collection of evidence.

"Sullivan" has changed his lawyer. Harford T. Marshall no longer represents him. He has chosen Lawyer Sullivan, who acts for Rose and Valion. James Sullivan, whose real name is Jacob Reich, has been in the West Fifty-fourth street jail for a long time in constant communication with Rose. The latter feels confident that "Sullivan" can be made to aid the State.

Should "Sullivan" fail to do this he will be indicted, it is believed.

The State is more than anxious to get hold of Sam Schepps because he was the go-between for Becker's money in his business days. Whitman believes Schepps would surrender were it not for the publication that he is wanted by the Federal Government. If Schepps does not take advantage of the opportunity open to him to add his story to those of Weber, Rose and Valion, he will be indicted as a principal.

Last night it was reported that as was in Chicago. That was the information that reached Valion by "grapevine" in his cell.

SCHEPPS WAS GO-BETWEEN OF BECKER AND ROSE.

One point Schepps can throw light upon was the precise nature of the talks Rose had with Becker before the latter had gambled away his life. He said he could not tell alone what Rose had said to Becker, but what Becker had said to Rose, as it was through Schepps that Becker sent most of his messages.

In this connection Mr. Whitman has

WHITMAN TO AID ALDERMEN'S HUNT FOR "HIGHER-UPS"

Investigating Committee to Name Counsel at Conference on Monday.

Before District Attorney Whitman left for Vermont, to remain over Sunday, Alderman H. H. Curran, chairman of the Aldermanic investigating committee, conferred with him on the coming investigation. Alderman Curran said today that he and the District Attorney reached an understanding with reference to co-operation and added that Mr. Whitman assured him nothing would be left undone by his office to throw all the light possible on police conditions.

"We are going to work harmoniously throughout," said the Alderman. "The District Attorney is more than enthusiastic over the work to be undertaken by our committee and believes considerable material will be found. He can be of great assistance to us and we can be of service to him. We are going to investigate to the hilt. We have heard for years of the man 'higher up' and if he exists we are going to get him this time."

"The matter of counsel is one that is engrossing us now. John Purroy Mitchell has been spoken of very highly and may be the man. I cannot say, the committee must decide. I have notified every member to be present Monday when we go into conference."

The committee will meet at 3 o'clock Monday. Aldermen Frank L. Dowling and O. Grant Esterbrook are out of town, but telegrams have been sent them. They promised before going away to respond to any summons to the preliminary conference if called. Counsel to the committee will be selected at the Monday meeting. Alderman Curran declared today that the lawyer would prove to be a man who could be depended upon to fearlessly investigate, no matter who is found to be involved.

"And," he says, "the will have the full support of every member of the committee, with politics set aside and no other influence interfering."

EARTHQUAKE KILLS MANY IN SEACOAST TOWNS OF TURKEY

Injured Taken to Constantinople Tell of Disaster—Dardanelles Cut Off.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 10.—The report of a small, 15 miles west of this city, and the town of Tchaouk-Kaleesi, at the narrowest part of the Dardanelles, have been destroyed by earthquakes. Many of the inhabitants were killed or injured.

Another slight shock of earthquake occurred here today. Details of the effects of yesterday's earthquake show that it was very severe on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmara. Telegraphic communication with the Dardanelles is interrupted but reports received by wireless telegraphy state that the Greek Consulate was destroyed.

The village on the Sea of Marmara suffered greatly and many of the inhabitants were killed or injured. A considerable number of the injured have arrived here for treatment in the hospitals.

The inhabitants of several villages are homeless and without food of any kind. A special steamer has been chartered, and a torpedo boat has been ordered to go to their relief.

FAREWELL TO SKIPPER.

Capt. H. D. Duxrud of the Red Star liner Lapland, who sailed today on his last trip as commander of that vessel, was given a rousing farewell by numerous friends who went to the pier for that purpose. Capt. Duxrud is superintending the construction of three new boats of the new Norwegian-American line, and after their completion will act as marine superintendent for that company.

Two interesting passengers on the Lapland were John and Guy de Buzarelli, sons of the Russian Ambassador, who have been with their father in Washington and have attended American schools. John is ten years old and Guy is eight. They are going home alone for a visit.

discovered that the telephone records at the Riviera, where Pollok lived, show many calls from his apartment on July 16, 17 and 18. These were the Tuesday on which Rose went to the apartment, the Thursday when he played there and the Thursday he left. The calls were with Police Headquarters and with Becker's home on Edgewood avenue.

There was much discussion at the West Fifty-fourth street jail as to the identity of a mysterious visitor who presented himself in the morning and was made out for "William Jones." Just as Bernard Rose, a brother of Jack Rose, stepped off a car the visitor came up. The two men went in together. Rose came out in a few minutes and declined to say who the other visitor was.

The other man stayed for several hours and was permitted to talk with all four prisoners. When he left the prison he refused to talk to any reporters.

Today at the office of the District Attorney showed he had given permission to no one by the name of William Jones to see the prisoners and had been made out for "William Jones." Just as Bernard Rose, a brother of Jack Rose, stepped off a car the visitor came up. The two men went in together. Rose came out in a few minutes and declined to say who the other visitor was.

The other man stayed for several hours and was permitted to talk with all four prisoners. When he left the prison he refused to talk to any reporters.

Today at the office of the District Attorney showed he had given permission to no one by the name of William Jones to see the prisoners and had been made out for "William Jones." Just as Bernard Rose, a brother of Jack Rose, stepped off a car the visitor came up. The two men went in together. Rose came out in a few minutes and declined to say who the other visitor was.

The other man stayed for several hours and was permitted to talk with all four prisoners. When he left the prison he refused to talk to any reporters.

Today at the office of the District Attorney showed he had given permission to no one by the name of William Jones to see the prisoners and had been made out for "William Jones." Just as Bernard Rose, a brother of Jack Rose, stepped off a car the visitor came up. The two men went in together. Rose came out in a few minutes and declined to say who the other visitor was.

"Pink Lady" Beauties Who Charmed The Boston Ancients on Voyage of Celtic.

COUNTESS LOUISE KELLY, MISS HAZEL DAWN, MISS AUCEBOOM, MISS ETHEL STANNARD

INVADING REDS SEIZE NEW HAVEN IN GAME OF WAR

(Continued from First Page.)

Appleton commanding; Twelfth Infantry, Col. T. W. Houston; Sixty-ninth Infantry, Col. L. D. Conner, and the Seventy-first Infantry, Col. W. F. Bates.

From Connecticut: First Infantry, under Col. John Hickey; Second Infantry, under Col. C. F. McCabe; First Separate Company Infantry, J. W. Rose Jr.; First Company Signal Corps, Capt. R. E. Baker, with Field Hospital and Ambulance Corps.

From Maine: Second Infantry, under Col. F. M. Hume.

From New Jersey: First Troop Cavalry, Second Troop Cavalry, Battery A, Field Artillery, Battery B, Field Artillery, the Signal Corps company and the First Field Hospital.

From Massachusetts: First Brigade, under Brig. Gen. F. E. Pierce and composed of the Second Infantry, under Col. W. C. Hayes; Sixth Infantry, under Col. H. Priest; the Second Brigade, under Brig. Gen. W. H. Jew Jr., and composed of the Fifth Infantry, under Col. W. W. Stover in command, and the Ninth Infantry, under Col. J. J. Sullivan.

The First Company Signal Corps, Capt. Harry G. Chase, First Field Hospital and the First Ambulance Company were with the Massachusetts units.

The National Guard are supported by the Second Battalion, Third United States Field Artillery, most of the Tenth United States Cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen; a portion of the United States Engineers and half the aviation section, all here today. Details of the effects of yesterday's earthquake show that it was very severe on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmara. Telegraphic communication with the Dardanelles is interrupted but reports received by wireless telegraphy state that the Greek Consulate was destroyed.

The village on the Sea of Marmara suffered greatly and many of the inhabitants were killed or injured. A considerable number of the injured have arrived here for treatment in the hospitals.

The inhabitants of several villages are homeless and without food of any kind. A special steamer has been chartered, and a torpedo boat has been ordered to go to their relief.

NEW YORK STATE GUARDSMEN IN "BLUE" ARMY.

The "Blue" Army is made up of the Fifth United States Infantry, the Second Brigade from New York under Brigadier General John G. Eddy, and composed of the Fourteenth Infantry, under Col. John H. Foster; the Twenty-third Infantry under Col. F. H. Norton and the Forty-seventh Infantry under Col. H. G. Hartman, supported by the First Battalion Field Artillery under Col. M. B. Thurston, the Second Battalion Field Artillery under Col. George A. Wingate; Second Regiment of Engineers, under Col. John B. Hotchkiss; First Cavalry, under Col. O. B. Bridge; and the Second Cavalry, under Col. C. L. DeBevoise; First Company, Signal Corps, under Capt. W. L. Hallinan; and the Second Company, Signal Corps, under Captain G. E. Schenk. The first and second field hospitals and the first and second ambulance companies are with the brigade.

From New Jersey came the First Brigade, made up of the First Infantry, Fourth Infantry and Fifth Infantry. Vermont sent its First Regiment of Infantry.

Both armies had sanitary troops and the necessary equipment of field trains and wagons for carrying camp equipment.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

INVADING REDS SEIZE NEW HAVEN IN GAME OF WAR

(Continued from First Page.)

Appleton commanding; Twelfth Infantry, Col. T. W. Houston; Sixty-ninth Infantry, Col. L. D. Conner, and the Seventy-first Infantry, Col. W. F. Bates.

From Connecticut: First Infantry, under Col. John Hickey; Second Infantry, under Col. C. F. McCabe; First Separate Company Infantry, J. W. Rose Jr.; First Company Signal Corps, Capt. R. E. Baker, with Field Hospital and Ambulance Corps.

From Maine: Second Infantry, under Col. F. M. Hume.

From New Jersey: First Troop Cavalry, Second Troop Cavalry, Battery A, Field Artillery, Battery B, Field Artillery, the Signal Corps company and the First Field Hospital.

From Massachusetts: First Brigade, under Brig. Gen. F. E. Pierce and composed of the Second Infantry, under Col. W. C. Hayes; Sixth Infantry, under Col. H. Priest; the Second Brigade, under Brig. Gen. W. H. Jew Jr., and composed of the Fifth Infantry, under Col. W. W. Stover in command, and the Ninth Infantry, under Col. J. J. Sullivan.

The First Company Signal Corps, Capt. Harry G. Chase, First Field Hospital and the First Ambulance Company were with the Massachusetts units.

The National Guard are supported by the Second Battalion, Third United States Field Artillery, most of the Tenth United States Cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen; a portion of the United States Engineers and half the aviation section, all here today. Details of the effects of yesterday's earthquake show that it was very severe on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmara. Telegraphic communication with the Dardanelles is interrupted but reports received by wireless telegraphy state that the Greek Consulate was destroyed.

The village on the Sea of Marmara suffered greatly and many of the inhabitants were killed or injured. A considerable number of the injured have arrived here for treatment in the hospitals.

The inhabitants of several villages are homeless and without food of any kind. A special steamer has been chartered, and a torpedo boat has been ordered to go to their relief.

NEW YORK STATE GUARDSMEN IN "BLUE" ARMY.

The "Blue" Army is made up of the Fifth United States Infantry, the Second Brigade from New York under Brigadier General John G. Eddy, and composed of the Fourteenth Infantry, under Col. John H. Foster; the Twenty-third Infantry under Col. F. H. Norton and the Forty-seventh Infantry under Col. H. G. Hartman, supported by the First Battalion Field Artillery under Col. M. B. Thurston, the Second Battalion Field Artillery under Col. George A. Wingate; Second Regiment of Engineers, under Col. John B. Hotchkiss; First Cavalry, under Col. O. B. Bridge; and the Second Cavalry, under Col. C. L. DeBevoise; First Company, Signal Corps, under Capt. W. L. Hallinan; and the Second Company, Signal Corps, under Captain G. E. Schenk. The first and second field hospitals and the first and second ambulance companies are with the brigade.

From New Jersey came the First Brigade, made up of the First Infantry, Fourth Infantry and Fifth Infantry. Vermont sent its First Regiment of Infantry.

Both armies had sanitary troops and the necessary equipment of field trains and wagons for carrying camp equipment.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

INVADING REDS SEIZE NEW HAVEN IN GAME OF WAR

(Continued from First Page.)

Appleton commanding; Twelfth Infantry, Col. T. W. Houston; Sixty-ninth Infantry, Col. L. D. Conner, and the Seventy-first Infantry, Col. W. F. Bates.

From Connecticut: First Infantry, under Col. John Hickey; Second Infantry, under Col. C. F. McCabe; First Separate Company Infantry, J. W. Rose Jr.; First Company Signal Corps, Capt. R. E. Baker, with Field Hospital and Ambulance Corps.

From Maine: Second Infantry, under Col. F. M. Hume.

From New Jersey: First Troop Cavalry, Second Troop Cavalry, Battery A, Field Artillery, Battery B, Field Artillery, the Signal Corps company and the First Field Hospital.

From Massachusetts: First Brigade, under Brig. Gen. F. E. Pierce and composed of the Second Infantry, under Col. W. C. Hayes; Sixth Infantry, under Col. H. Priest; the Second Brigade, under Brig. Gen. W. H. Jew Jr., and composed of the Fifth Infantry, under Col. W. W. Stover in command, and the Ninth Infantry, under Col. J. J. Sullivan.

The First Company Signal Corps, Capt. Harry G. Chase, First Field Hospital and the First Ambulance Company were with the Massachusetts units.

The National Guard are supported by the Second Battalion, Third United States Field Artillery, most of the Tenth United States Cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen; a portion of the United States Engineers and half the aviation section, all here today. Details of the effects of yesterday's earthquake show that it was very severe on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmara. Telegraphic communication with the Dardanelles is interrupted but reports received by wireless telegraphy state that the Greek Consulate was destroyed.

The village on the Sea of Marmara suffered greatly and many of the inhabitants were killed or injured. A considerable number of the injured have arrived here for treatment in the hospitals.

The inhabitants of several villages are homeless and without food of any kind. A special steamer has been chartered, and a torpedo boat has been ordered to go to their relief.

NEW YORK STATE GUARDSMEN IN "BLUE" ARMY.

The "Blue" Army is made up of the Fifth United States Infantry, the Second Brigade from New York under Brigadier General John G. Eddy, and composed of the Fourteenth Infantry, under Col. John H. Foster; the Twenty-third Infantry under Col. F. H. Norton and the Forty-seventh Infantry under Col. H. G. Hartman, supported by the First Battalion Field Artillery under Col. M. B. Thurston, the Second Battalion Field Artillery under Col. George A. Wingate; Second Regiment of Engineers, under Col. John B. Hotchkiss; First Cavalry, under Col. O. B. Bridge; and the Second Cavalry, under Col. C. L. DeBevoise; First Company, Signal Corps, under Capt. W. L. Hallinan; and the Second Company, Signal Corps, under Captain G. E. Schenk. The first and second field hospitals and the first and second ambulance companies are with the brigade.

From New Jersey came the First Brigade, made up of the First Infantry, Fourth Infantry and Fifth Infantry. Vermont sent its First Regiment of Infantry.

Both armies had sanitary troops and the necessary equipment of field trains and wagons for carrying camp equipment.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col. William A. Mann. The "Red" Army is under command of Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Smith, and the "Blue" army under Gen. Albert L. Mills. Gen. Bliss, who is chief umpire, had under him about one hundred officers, who will observe the operations in the capacity of umpires.

The forces are under the command of Brig. Gen. Tanker H. Bliss, who is commander of the Department of the East, and his chief of staff is Col